Lower the barriers

Reservations will help shake people out of their ignorant prejudices against women in politics and open the way for a much bigger pool of political talent.

By Pankaj Vohra

The preparations for the Games are in full swing. Delhiites are paying for the hike in fuel prices and additional taxes to be collected for the common good of the country. The preparations for the Games are the cost of taking the risk of more than two decades of disparity in infrastructural development for the Games. The preparations are tantamount to disrespecting the free spirit of the Indian political arena.

Women in politics are not just the most important element of political change but also the act of political change itself, not only in terms of the number of women elected but also in terms of the number of women who are standing as candidates reflecting the need for a political consensus to put women on the political agenda.

The preparations for the Games are also the cost of taking the risk of more than two decades of disparity in infrastructural development for the Games. The games are not just a showcase of athletes but also a showcase of a range of human values and ethical considerations. The preparations are tantamount to disrespecting the free spirit of the Indian political arena.

Women in politics are not just the most important element of political change but also the act of political change itself, not only in terms of the number of women elected but also in terms of the number of women who are standing as candidates reflecting the need for a political consensus to put women on the political agenda.

The preparations for the Games are the cost of taking the risk of more than two decades of disparity in infrastructural development for the Games. The games are not just a showcase of athletes but also a showcase of a range of human values and ethical considerations. The preparations are tantamount to disrespecting the free spirit of the Indian political arena.

Women in politics are not just the most important element of political change but also the act of political change itself, not only in terms of the number of women elected but also in terms of the number of women who are standing as candidates reflecting the need for a political consensus to put women on the political agenda.

The preparations for the Games are the cost of taking the risk of more than two decades of disparity in infrastructural development for the Games. The games are not just a showcase of athletes but also a showcase of a range of human values and ethical considerations. The preparations are tantamount to disrespecting the free spirit of the Indian political arena.